Frostburg Elks To Sponsor Annual Flag Day Services

The Rev. Mr. Simon Will Give Principal Address on Wednesday

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, June 11—The Rev. Walter V. Simon, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, will be the principal speaker at the annual flag day services of Frostburg Lodge, No. 470, B. P. O. Elks, to be held at the Elks home Wednesday evening.

The Elks home, under direction of R. H. Lancaster, will give a concert in front of the home from 7:30 to 8:30 and the indoor exercises will follow the concert. In addition to the flag day address by the Rev. Mr. Simon, there will be a musical program under direction of Prof. Arthur Thomas and the flag day ceremony at the home of the lodge, assisted by Boy Scouts and a group of young local girls, serving as flag bearers.

John B. F. Edwards, chairman of the committee, urges the public to attend, placing emphasis on the fact that this will be an opportunity to pay a fitting tribute to the flag which the boys are now fighting to defend in all parts of the world.

Plan Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Finzel, 38, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, June 13, with open house all day at their home.

Finzel, a native of Garrett county, is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Finzel, of Finzel, and until his retirement was a coal miner. Mrs. Finzel, also a Garrett countian, is the former Miss Alice Bolden, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leroy Bolden.

They were married in Frostburg, fifty years ago and have one son, Charles Leroy Finzel, who was employed in Washington for twenty years by the Potomac Electric Power Company. He is now employed at the Celanese plant. Another son, Earl Finzel, died eight months ago at his home, Centennial street, from a heart attack.

Parsons Captain Is Rescued from English Channel

Capt. E. E. Ours, Jr., Took Part in Initial Landing in France

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, June 11—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Ours, Sr., Parsons, were notified Saturday morning that their son, Capt. E. E. Ours, Jr., was a member of the crew rescued in the English channel on Tuesday evening.

The story is told as follows by Lieut. Seymour Rutberg as "he and his crew started to France in a glider towing twin engine Dakota and came back on a British destroyer which tried to ram them in the rubber boat because they were mistaken for Germans."

He said that a burst of flak caught their plane right under a chin, knocked out one engine, and ridled the gas tank. They made a forced landing in the channel about ten miles off Cherbourg peninsula and piled into the dinghy which the crew chief had in the water by the time they reached the back door. The plane stayed afloat about twenty minutes," he added.

"About 3 a. m. the black hunk of a warship was sighted. We were so sick and weak and cold it took all our strength to load the flare patrol and pull the trigger. When we did this the ship started to ram us. The commander later told us he thought we were a German E-boat. We shot another flare and shouted, "ahoy," and they let down their ladders and took us aboard."

Capt. Ours was flight commander of a sixty plane crew that helped make the initial landing on Monday morning, according to further word his parents received here. He enlisted in the air corps in 1942 and received his primary training at Los Palos, Calif. He received his basic training at La Moore Field, Calif., and was given advanced training at Williams Field, Phoenix, Ariz. After being commissioned a second lieutenant he was stationed at Austin, Texas, Louisville, Ky., Chandler Field, Mo., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Hope Field, N. C., before being transferred to foreign duty where he has been since November 19, 1943. He has participated in a number of missions over enemy territory and has been promoted from second lieutenant to captain since going overseas.

The Serious Teacher Training Shortage

SOME TIME SINCE this newspaper discussed the problem of those in charge of the teachers training colleges of the state with regard to the recruiting of students to help meet the demand caused by the general shortage of teachers in the state. The situation does not appear to have improved; in fact it seems to be getting worse and those in charge of the training of teachers are as perplexed as ever as to what to do in the circumstances.

War production work with its big wages have attracted many potential teachers from the field. Depletion has been caused also by the demands of the armed services. The supply of teachers continues critical. After the summer graduation, only 270 students will most likely be left on the campuses of the three state training colleges, not counting the students who will begin in June; and it seems doubtful that there will be any more than they had last summer, if as many, when they enrolled only 139 new students. At Frostburg, for example, those students who are likely to persist until their graduation total only fifty-five; eighteen for this year, twenty-three for next year and fourteen for 1946.

Obviously what is needed at this time is that the state teachers colleges of the state be placed in a position to approach new students with some of the advantages that are enlisting them in other fields.

The waiving of tuition for all students for the duration has been advocated in the conviction that it would more than double the number of students who can be enrolled without this advantage, and without causing any lessening of standards anywhere.

If tuition fees are waived, of course the necessary funds represented must be obtained from other sources. If the three colleges are to have only 270 students on their campuses in September plus the new students that may be enrolled, $50,000 would, in the opinion of the educators concerned, give an increase in the freshman enrollment over last year of sixty per cent. That would bring the total enrollment to 500 students, and 230 of them would be freshmen as against the freshman enrollment of 139 last year.

Recommendation was made to the General Assembly last year that the tuition be waived for the duration and that the state make up the difference. It may be within the power of the state Board of Public Works to take care of such an emergency measure. At any rate, something should be done about this teacher training shortage, which has become so serious. Those advocating the tuition waiver are convinced that with the present accelerated program that hastens students through the colleges at twenty-five per cent greater speed than that at which they enter would render the biggest service possible at this time. Their pleas certainly deserve consideration.

Bigger Invasion Thrusts Likely

THERE SEEMS little doubt that more—and even bigger—invasion thrusts are still to come against Hitler's Europe. That the German high command realizes it was seen in their apparent reluctance to go all out in attempts to stop establishment of the beachhead in the Cherbourg-Havre area.

But time is on the side of the Allies. The Nazi dilemma is that they cannot permit the drive from the expanding beachhead to continue without a fierce counter-attack, nor do they dare take their eyes off all the other possible invasion spots, notably the Calais sector.

If they "shoot the works", so to speak, at the Allied invasion troops in the Cherbourg-Havre district, the biggest smash of all may come through Calais and all but ruin them at one blow. And if they do not they may find the Allies exploiting the Havre landings and driving clear through to Paris.

The Allies have landed much heavy equipment and seem to be prepared for any counterattacks by the Germans. The generalship of Allied leaders in these early moves has been superb.

One of the great accomplishments has been the amazing coordination of all the branches of the services. The mine sweepers did a brilliantly successful job of clearing the waters for the huge invasion fleet and everywhere thus far there has been magnificent teamwork.

But German military tactics always call for counterattacks and their well-trained and well-equipped armies can deliver many punishing blows before Allied forces are well on their way across Europe.

It is a brutal job, this one. But it does appear, even at this point, that the Germans are being outgeneraled, outfought and outflanked.

Four-way Network Shuttle Bombing

OPERATION of American planes from bases in Russia, recently inaugurated, completes the bombing picture in Europe. Shuttle bombing has been instituted on a four-way network. Planes based in England, Italy and North Africa can now attack important targets, particularly in the Balkans, without making a round trip. Refueled in Russia they will stage more attacks on the way home. All of Europe is now within range of Allied air might.

Bases in Russia from which American planes could operate have long been hoped for. Russia was presumed to be stalling because of its neutral relations with Japan. Some military observers had declared Stalin never would recede from that position. They were wrong.

Air fields now being used by American planes have been under construction for many months. Supplies of parts had been assembled and facilities for service completed. While appearing to oppose the plan, Stalin was only awaiting completion of the bases to announce the innovation.

American airmen have realized their fondest dream. With these new facilities they will be able to bring the war to every part of Hitler's territory. This development marks another step in cooperation by the Allies which will bring final doom to Hitler.

Radio Takes a Place In Railway Operation

THERE IS LITTLE DOUBT that radio will eventually supplement the telegraph and telephone in the operation of railway trains. More than twenty companies have asked the Federal Communications Commission for permission to erect experimental stations for use in operating trains.

The idea is not new. Twenty years ago experiments were conducted. Results obtained were unsatisfactory. Following a series of disastrous wrecks, with loss of life, interest was renewed. Railways are now getting applications for stations in early in anticipation of accelerated competition for radio frequencies after the war.

As now contemplated, there will be two-way communication between the dispatcher and the train in motion. This will be supplemented by facilities for communication between members of the entire train crews and walkie-talkies for flagmen and track inspectors.

Railroad men, who have been telegraph-minded and in more recent years have used the telephone to some extent, now see in radio possibilities which will supplement the other two means of communication.

War Manpower Commission says it will find jobs for discharged veterans. This will make it unnecessary for the 24,000 employees of the War Manpower Commission to look for jobs.

Since synthetic rubber tires may become available next winter, motorists with thin treads might as well begin doing their Christmas hinting now.

Mankind's first jobs, we read, were hunting and fishing. The cave man had an excellent idea of what should be called work.

The Brower's Bookshelf

By MARSHALL MASLIN

This week the Brower browsed at length through a very horrible and fascinating book: "Great Tales of Terror and the Supernatural" (Random House) fifty-two stories running into 1,000 pages and never in all his life has he had such a grim and shuddery time.

Here, gathered into one gruesome book are specimens from the pens of Balzac, Poe, Ambrose Bierce, H. G. Wells, Saki, Faulkner, Hemingway, Maupassant, F. Marion Crawford, O. Henry, Kipling, Walter de la Mare, Richard Middleton, Isak Dinesen and many others.

Some of these writers are specialists in the horror business, others are authors who usually wrote of more mundane matters.

There's material enough in this fat volume for any taste, any tendency, any aversion or desire, and some of them seem calculated merely to shock the reader.

There are emissions, of course. Bierce is here, with the obscure "Boared Window"; the Brower would have preferred his story of the ferocious invisible beast in the forest. May Sinclair's volume of tales from the supernatural contain at least two that are worthy of inclusion here. And Irvin Cobb tried his hand in this genre and didn't do so badly, either. However, those are stories for another collection; editors Wise and Fraser have done well enough with these books. May they toss in their sleep and moan in their nightmares!

As a slight antidote there's Tim Prigden's "West Goes the Road" (Doubleday Doran), an historical novel of the years after the Revolution when men learned that it is necessary to fight to save their freedom after they have won it. The years when Aaron Burr and Gen. Wilkinson turned traitor and the rich American prize was still coveted by the British, the French and the Spanish. The hero is a brave young underdog and the heroine is a silly goose, but the tale is historically exciting and, one may assume, close to fact.

Carlisle and Latham's "Miracles Ahead" or better-living-in-the-postwar world (Macmillan) is pretty fascinating and it may be like that, too—but a good thick steak without red points would satisfy the Brower. Plastic don't excite him. Nor do edible cans.

From Noel Busch's "My Unconsidered Judgment" (The agreeable hum you hear in the streets of Egyptian cities is caused by bagpipes, bells on carts, heterogeneous auto horns, horses' hoofs, slipper-scuffle, conversation, bird-song, barrel organs and squeals". . . He also says that African witch doctors don't know how to cure the common cold, either.

And that's about enough for this week from Marsh Maslin.

THE BROWER.

Atlantic Charter Confusion Arouses Popular Concern

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 11—A latent but tremendous popular interest in the country over the confused status of the Atlantic Charter as it faces leftist ideologies in war-torn Europe has been freshly detected by the Senate.

An astonishing number of requests have come in for copies of a speech by New Hampshire's Republican Senator Bridges, made in the Senate May 24. Recently, the number was above 80,000, and it will run above 100,000.

About 40,000 of the first requests came from Protestant groups, 10,000 more from Catholics, the rest from other sources.

Roosevelt Criticized

The public may recall the address as a criticism of Mr. Roosevelt giving naval vessels to Russia when Churchill would not let the Italian navy go, and inasmuch as we still face a great naval war in the Pacific in which Russia is not involved.

This was only the introduction of the Bridges speech which reached the headlines. The bulk of it was a less sensational inquiry into the status of the Atlantic Charter and other freedoms directed to Mr. Roosevelt and asking him: "Have you lost the initiative in Europe?"

Italian Changes Confusing

The news from Italy lately has only added to the popular confusion. The withdrawal of the king in favor of Crown Prince Umberto as "Lieutenant general of the realm" has received varied interpretations. An Italian-American labor leader in Boston asserted the king was under communistic influence, but Umberto's position is being described as fascist by the liberal press.

The pronouncements of the Vatican immediately after the freeing of Rome revealed no inkling of its political knowledge or intentions.

The Communist Leader Browder has broadcast on our radio domestically an implication that some Catholic churchmen have accepted the validity of Russian indications of espousal of religion as against the atheism and agnostic ideologies formerly promoted and imposed on the Russians by the state. Incidentally but not necessarily significantly, Mr. Browder closed his address with an appeal to God in some connection or other.

The only thing clear, therefore, is that there is confusion—therefore no agreement. Valid and authentic interpretations beyond this may be a long time coming.

Ostensible Laboratory

It was supposed to be a laboratory for working out the conflicts, but the political reorganization there so far has been too difficult for words, at least any official words from Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill or Stalin.

The communists are in control of almost all the European underground movements, and are, therefore, the most active political influence we are freeing not only in Italy, France and Poland, but throughout Europe.

Always in the past, they have used the words "freedom" and "democracy" in a far different sense than we do, so documentary evidence thus far has done little to change the confusion. Most communists still look upon freedom as meaning just one thing—freedom from fascism if not capitalism, or in fact, freedom from democracy as we understand it.

Russia an Opportunist

Also, Russia in the past has changed its ideological course temporarily with its fingers crossed behind its back, solely to get its way, and when this purpose was accomplished, it would revert to its original purpose. This is the precise official explanation of Stalin's friendship neutrality treaty with Hitler when Poland was invaded and Britain was drawn into the war.

Suspensions, therefore, are natural

INVASION STOWAWAY

PFC. CHARLES E. SCHMELE, 20, Pittsburgh, unintentionally "crashed" the invasion as an uninvited guest aboard a glider in the airborne invasion spearhead. While servicing troop-carrying gliders for the invasion he crawled into one for a nap. At last report Schmelze was winging his way over the channel in the glider.

Demand for a New Law Is Seen Likely As Result of Court Insurance Decision

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 10 — The New Deal has finally got its claws into the insurance business. While the Supreme Court of the United States for seventy-five years has ruled that insurance contracts are not subject to regulation by the federal government but only of the states, a minority of the present membership of the court has reversed that decision.

This is not only the first time in the history of the supreme court that a minority of the justices have reversed an important precedent.

Yet in Italy, there is one force which is certainly Christian in its ideals—the ideals which Mr. Roosevelt rightly described May 27, 1941 (quoted in the Bridges speech) as being "the dignity of the human soul, in a world where moral standards are measured by treachery and bribery and fifth columnists." (The president was then speaking of a communist dictatorship.) It was this point of Christian ideology which brought so many inquiries for the Bridges speech.

The Vatican is not only "the best informed institution on earth," but well might be a great influence in Italy, Poland, France, etc., where there seems to be few Roosevelt Democrats, and as far as I can see it, the main power present to be used for maintenance of the Christian ideology along with the Church of England and various protestant denominations on the continent.

Should Stay On the Job

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

The June issue of the International Teamster, official magazine of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers of America, devotes a whole page to the reproduction of a V-mail letter to Daniel J. Tobin, international president, from Pfc. Bernie C. Mason, now serving with the Fourth marine division in the Pacific but formerly president of Local No. 249 at Pittsburgh, Pa. In that letter, Pfc. Mason writes to "Dear Brother Tobin" as follows:

"As one of the many brothers serving in the armed forces of our country, I would like to say that nothing is more discouraging to the men than to receive news from home and hear only about someone on strike, or threatening to go on strike.

"In the service there are men from all walks of life united together and fighting for the victory that will be ours. Our job out here is to kick the hell out of Japan and in opinion that will be done. However, our job will be quicker finished if Labor as a whole will stay on the job and adopt the slogan: 'Damn the Strikes, Full Speed Ahead!'"

The heading placed over the reproduction of this letter in the International Teamster is "A Soldier Salutes Us!" We wonder if "salutes" is exactly the right word.

and will not easily be dispelled. If the transferring of an unexplained title of "Lieutenant general" from the king to Umberto (later to be passed, some say, to Umberto's son) becomes a cover for an Italian communist radical grasp for power, it is one thing. If it becomes only a cover for the confusion (as it most likely is) then the fruits of war are being ripened only on the outside peeling, and worms at the core will continue to work.

Certainly no evidence behind the news suggests anything more than dicker for control among the politicians of Italy now, evidence which has been available also concerning Poland, France, etc.

Christian Force in Italy

on the insurance business because of the vast control of funds involved therein. If a bureaucracy is created here to regulate the insurance business, it will be one of the biggest additions to governmental agencies in recent years.

Conflict Question Up

Also there are forty-eight states which have insurance departments and the question arises now as to the conflict between the federal government and the states.

Attorney General Biddle has said there is no present intention to enter into a regulation of the insurance business. But he cannot speak for the bureaucrats who have been planning a long while to set up a federal agency to control insurance. When the full import of the decision of the supreme court this week reaches all the persons involved in the insurance business throughout the United States, from company executives to life insurance and fire insurance agents, it is certain that Congress will be impetioned to pass a law specifically exempting the insurance business from being enmeshed in the Sherman law and its ramifications.

After the Horse Is Stolen

From the Altoona, Pa., Tribune

A new program which freezes the jobs of all male workers and centralizes control of all employment in the U. S. Employment Service has been announced by the war manpower commission.

This is a drastic order, yet, strangely, one hears little comment on it. What it means in effect is that American men are, for the duration of the war, no longer strictly free agents. It means they must have approval of the government before they change their jobs.

Of course, its success must depend not only upon the careful administration of it by the employment service, but also upon the co-operation of employers and employees . . . all of them.

The labor turnover monthly in principal American cities is tremendous, averaging around 20,000 and upward. That means that thousands of people are just changing jobs every month in an effort to get better ones.

But, there is a dangerous weak spot in this program: The government waited too long.

When America was working desperately to attain the vast production goals now achieved, there was apparent a rising need for such job controls, from agriculture to war industry. It was while this country faced the beginnings of what was to become a critical labor situation that such a drastic move should have been instituted.

Now, the government has permitted the production program to attain its apex without the enforcement of such regulations.

This has all the aspects of locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen.

Russian-Polish Situation Is Seen As Clearing Up

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON—Two significant developments between Russia and the Polish government-in-exile have heartened Allied observers to the belief that peace between the two governments is in sight and that the results may set definite pattern for other members of the United Nations.

Washington is watching closely for any signs of concern on Russia's part in future relations, but there is general agreement that the resignation of Gen. Kazimierz Sosnowski as president-designate of the Polish exile group may produce harmony in the overall picture.

The general has been an outspoken foe of the Soviet. And his resignation followed word received in London from the Polish underground that the Polish people were him divested of his political power.

The second peace-producing factor is Russian assurances that Polish children in Soviet territory may receive religious instruction. It is predominantly Catholic Poland, and announcement, if believed, may lead to alleviate the strained religious situation which has been an unstable corollary of the matter of power politics in eastern Europe.

Congress Still in the Woods

Congress has been picking up a little speed in disposing of appropriation bills. But it still is not out of the woods, and unless it continues to move rapidly it will be in a jam by the time the Republican national convention opens in Chicago June 26.

This means a recess for the GOP conclave is highly doubtful. There is also considerable doubt as to whether there will be a summer recess.

For one thing, an invasion of Europe from the west will put many senators and representatives in a different temper with respect to taking a summer holiday to wait on their election campaigns. They may feel the best way to conduct a re-election campaign will be to stay on the job.

Summer-Long Trial Seen

Its beginning to look like the mass session trial of twenty-seven men and two women accused of having attempted to shake the morale of the nation's armed forces with isolationist and pacifist writings will be with Washington for the rest of the summer at least. The turbulent case has now gone into its seventh week.

Only on May 23 did the first evidence get into the already-long record. Thus, most of the first month and a half was taken up by preliminaries.

OPA Still Skittish

OPA is still scared to death to mention the past college and university faculty connections of some of its high officials. This goes back to last summer when Congress raised considerable fuss about "long-haired" college professors in important OPA policy jobs.

Congress passed an act requiring that the professors get the heads and that practical business men be brought in to replace them. OPA Boss Bowles complied and the furor died down.

But OPA is still skittish when its former college profs are concerned. A prime example was announcement of the appointment of Charles F. Phillips as OPA ratings chief.

OPA made no mention of when Phillips came from. The reason: He's an economic professor on leave from Colgate university.

Election Rationing Irks Bowles

OPTs' top man, Chester Bowles, sees red when it is insinuated his agency may further ease up on rationing just prior to the November elections.

At a recent press conference a reporter queried Bowles on such prospects. The OPA chief strode to the front of his desk, glaring at the questioner.

"Do you want to bet?" he snapped.

The reporter groped for words then replied:

"How much?"

A gale of laughter disposed of the issue.

Sponsored News

From the Pittsburgh Press

There is one disturbing item in the generally good communication bill which has been drafted by Senators Wheeler, of Montana, and White, of Maine. This provision would ban commercial sponsorship of news broadcasts by compelling networks and stations to pay for such broadcasts.

This implies an irresponsibility which we do not think the broadcasting industry merits. No one would think of banning the news from newspapers because the cost of newspaper operating costs are met through advertising revenue. Yet the Wheeler-White provision would have the same effect in commercial broadcasting, where bills are paid by sale of time to advertisers. Such a proposal, if it comes law, would establish a dangerous precedent inconsistent with freedom of speech and press.

"Yellow Canary" Starts Tomorrow at Liberty

The historic and commercially important city of Halifax features largely in "The Yellow Canary," starting tomorrow at the Liberty theater. It is a rousing spy melodrama which introduces Anna Neagle to the thriller field. Hitherto Miss Neagle has appeared in such dignified biographical films as "Queen Victoria" and "Edith Cavell" or in such delightful musicals as "Sunny," "No, No Nanette" and "Irene." Richard Greene is co-starred.

In "The Yellow Canary" the popular star portrays the lovely Sally Maitland, aristocratic young Briton whose ostensible Nazi sympathies result in her exile to Canada.

Simon Rosenbaum Weds Miss Maxine Shapiro

Ceremony Is Performed by Rabbi Lefkowitz at Bridegroom's Home

Miss Maxine Shapiro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shapiro, Narrows Park, became the bride of Sgt. Simon Rosenbaum, Alamogordo air field, Alamogordo, New Mexico, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rosenbaum, The Dingle, yesterday.

With members of the immediate families attending, the wedding ceremony was solemnized before an improvised altar, decorated with palms and white peonies, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum, with Rabbi Aaron Lefkowitz, of B'ar Chaim congregation, and Dr. Charles A. Rubenstein, of Baltimore, officiating.

Lt. and Mrs. Norman E. Goldblatt, Aberdeen, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, were the attendants.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white eyelet pique gown, fashioned on Empire style, with a sweetheart neckline, short sleeves and floor length circular skirt, with which she wore matching mittens. Her finger-tip length veil was held by a bonnet of net. She carried a Bible with a marker of white orchids with streamers of strophosis. Her matron of honor was also attired in a white eyelet gown trimmed with grosgrain streamers and made on the basque lines, and with a round neckline. She wore a white net Juliette cap with a shoulder length veil. A huge arm bouquet of plumosa completed her costume.

Mrs. Shapiro chose a navy blue and white print dress for her daughter's wedding, with which she wore navy blue accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Rosenbaum was attired in a navy blue chiffon cape dress with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids completed her costume.

Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a black lace gown with a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Allegheny high school, where she was a member of ADK, the French club, the Choral club and was on the staff of the Allegheny. She also attended Catherman's Business school.

The bridegroom attended Allegheny high school and Mercersburg Academy, Mercersburg, Pa., and two years at Catherman's. Before volunteering for the army air corps he completed a course in air mechanics at the Middletown air depot, near Harrisburg, Pa. He graduated from a course at Kessler field, Miss., and also has a diploma from the Ford school at Willow Brook Run, Mich.

the fifth, Don Whitman's two-base error, a miscue by Hoadley and Mosser's triple gave the winners their second tally.

The Legion manufactured a run in the first on an error, a wild pitch and Ted Durbin's single; two in the sixth on Durbin's single, an error, an infield out, another error and a triple by M. B. Clemmer, and another in the final box when Whitman tripled and scored on an error by James Nichols.

The defeat was the first for Bean in two starts while the victory was Patterson's first of the season. Tysinger led the Westvaco attack with two singles and a double while Bob Shelley and Durbin each had a pair of singles for the Legion. The box scores:

Freshman Leads Illinois Squad To Track Crown

Claude "Buddy" Young Scores 28 Points; Irish Take Second

Team	Points
Illinois	28
Irish	15

MILWAUKEE, June 11 (AP)—In twenty-three years of National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field competition, freshman athletes have had scant opportunity to take the spotlight, but a University of Illinois yearling, Claude (Buddy) Young, did just that in Marquette stadium last night as the midwestern team walked to the NCAA title.

Young contributed twenty-eight points to the Illinois point total of seventy-nine and emerged with individual honors for the meet. He kept his season's record in the sprints clear of defeat by winning the 100 yard dash in 9.7 seconds and the 220 in 21.6 seconds. Moreover he captured second in the broad jump behind Ralph Tyler, of Ohio State.

Ken Wiesner, of Marquette, and Elmore Harris, an unsung negro from Morgan State college, Baltimore, shared the spotlight with Young. Wiesner dethroned Fred Sheffield, of Utah, by taking the high jump at six feet seven and three-eighths inches, and Harris won the 440 yard run and the low hurdles in two of the night's best performances. Harris was clocked in 47.9 in the quarter mile, fastest collegiate time of the year, and 23.9 in the hurdles.

Michigan's famed Hume twins, Robert and Ross, repeated their "dead heat" act in the mile for the ninth time in 4:16.6.

Notre Dame finished second in the team scoring with forty-three points; Michigan, Perennial Big Ten title winner, was third with forty. Other scoring: Ohio state twenty-three, Northwestern twenty, Purdue twenty, Morgan State (Baltimore) twenty.

Cards Win Pair, Set Double Play Mark for League

Redbirds Make Nine Double Kills in Topping Reds 3-1, 4-1

Team	Points
Redbirds	9
Reds	3

CINCINNATI, June 11 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals gave the Cincinnati Reds a double beating and set a record for the league with a National League record for double plays in twin bills with nine.

The St. Louis infield made four double plays in the opener and five in the second game. The previous mark of seven was set by Philadelphia in April, 1917.

Cincinnati hopes of getting even in the second game flew over the left field wall in the sixth when three successive Redbirds batters, Walker, Cooper, Whitby, Kuroski and Danny Litwiler, lined identical home runs against the laundry across the street.

The Cards got a single run in the fifth on Emil Verban's safety, a walk and Pepper Martin's double. Harry Gumbert pitched the nightcap for St. Louis and gave the Reds their only tally on a walk sacrifice and a single in the first inning. Although he allowed six hits and two walks, Gumbert pitched to twenty-eight batters because of his infield's double kills.

Behind six-hit pitching by George Munger, the Cards got single runs in the first, fourth and sixth innings of the opening game while the Reds could manage only a single run which came in the seventh on Eric Tipton's single, a double by Frank McCormick and a long fly. The scores:

League-Leading Brownies Divide With Cleveland

St. Louis Wins Nightcap on Pinch-Hitter's Grand Slam Homer

Team	Points
Brownies	1
Cleveland	1

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (AP)—The league-leading St. Louis Browns salvaged the final contest of a four-game series with the Cleveland Indians in the second game of a doubleheader today, 4 to 2, when Pinch-hitter Gene Moore delivered a grand slam home run with the bases loaded in the last of the seventh inning. Cleveland won the first game 13 to 1.

Moore's blow to the roof of the deep right field pavilion came on the first pitch by Relief Hurler Joe Heving who had been rushed into service when Steve Gromek suddenly lost control. Gromek had loaded the bases with two walks and a Texas League single.

In the opener Veteran Mel Harder scattered five hits while his teammates clubbed three Brownie pitchers for nineteen blows and thirteen runs. The home team's only tally was the result of a walk and a double by Mark Christman. It was Harder's sixth victory.

But Muncie registered his fifth triumph against two losses in the nightcap. The scores:

Show by Mercer Will Take Waring Spot on Radio

Music Shop Series Will Begin at 7 o'Clock This Evening

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The Johnny Mercer Music Shop comes to NBC Monday evening for a special feature. This is the program that takes over the time occupied for so long by Fred Waring at 7 p. m., with a repeat at 11. Johnny's co-broadcasters will be Paul Weston's orchestra and Singing Joe Stafford as the feminine element.

Two new shows make their appearance on MBS. At 9:15 starts a five-week series, Screen Test, in which professionals will be given their first movie tryout via radio. Kay Lorraine will start things off.

The other new MBS program is the American Home Concert from WGN with Attilio Baggio, tenor, as the feature. It goes out at 9:30. This broadcast will discontinue the late-night Baggio broadcasts at 12:30, this period to be filled by another return to Trender's Harmony Hall.

The Fifth War Loan drive opening today, the networks are giving it particular attention with special announcements, both spot and in regular programs. Among the features are two announced for the Blue at 4 p. m. and at 9:30 p. m., the latter in place of the regular spotlight bands.

In addition, all networks are joining with the Treasury department in the presentation of a special hour's program as introductory to the bond campaign. It will open at 10, with pickups from Washington, New York and Hollywood, and with Sec. Henry Morgenthau, Jr. participating. Regularly listed programs have been cancelled to make way for it.

President Roosevelt is to speak briefly at some time during the broadcast.

Dateline of CBS moves into a new time at 7:15, having signed another sponsor. . . Rose Hampton is the first guest in a summer concert series directed by Howard Barlow on NBC at 8:30. . . Nelson Eddy and Jeannette MacDonald will play "Naughty Marietta" for the CBS Radio Theater at 9.

WTBO will present the special program from the Maryland theater, which will feature entertainment by the Camp Lee band personnel and local specialty artists.

Two broadcasts will be heard Tuesday night from the Maryland State Army, when the War Bond dance is in progress. They will be presented at 9:00-9:30 and 10:30-11:00 p. m., and will feature the music by the Camp Lee band. A galaxy of network stars, commentators and other distinguished guests will highlight the NBC "Round-the-Clock" programs to be presented throughout June 13, climaxed by an hour and a half of continuous entertainment from Hollywood, NBC-WTBO 11:30 p. m. 1:00 a. m.

Oak Street Beer License Refused On Technical Point

A remonstrance against issuing of a beer license at 32 Oak street was granted Friday by Chief Judge Walter C. Capper and Associate Judge William A. Huster, who held that the applicant, Mrs. Violet K. Herman, is not a full-time employee of the store and is not a member of the firm. Mrs. Herman works part-time in the store operated by M. L. Mostoller, and his wife.

Property owners and members of the Seventh Day Adventist church had protested issuance of the license, one group on the grounds that property values would be impaired and the church group on the ground that it would imperil the morals of young people of the church.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the defendant asserted that the re-monstrants were against liquor, wine or beer for anybody.

Evidence of Fraud Lacking, Judge Holds

There was no evidence of attempt to defraud, as alleged, Associate Judge William A. Huster ruled Friday, in circuit court, in sustaining the demurrer to a bill of complaint, filed by Mrs. Therese Billings against Edward J. Ryan, assignee, and John Langan. The suit resulted from a mortgage sale of properties on Columbia and Walnut streets.

The Columbia street property was mortgaged for $8,000, in 1923, and was transferred recently to Langan.

If New York City's school children and teachers were to march in by parade formation, it would take 90 hours for them to pass.

Crowd of 3,000 Persons Attends War Bond-Flag Day Rally Here

Music by Camp Lee Band, Talks by Veterans and Tableau on American Flag Are Features

Three thousand persons filled Port Hill stadium last night to witness a colorful flag day-bond rally marking the formal opening of the Fifth War Loan drive in Allegany county. The rally was sponsored by Cumberland Lodge No. 63, B.P.O. Elks.

As the marchers in the parade filed to their places in the stadium, three Civilian Air Patrol planes circled the field slowly, dipping their wings to the American flag on the speakers' platform in the center of the field.

Sgt. Jack Platt's military band opened the program with a Gershwin medley from "Porgy and Bess." Harry I. Stegmaler, acting executive ruler of the Elks, presented a history of the American flag in the form of a tableau, enacted by eight girls from Allegany and Port Hill high schools, each carrying one of the eight flags which preceded the present stars and stripes.

Miss Irene Ley, chosen by the Elks committee to represent Miss America, climaxed the tableau as she carried the American flag of today to the place of honor in the center of the platform during the playing of the national anthem.

Three Veterans Speak

Joseph M. Naughton, chairman of the Allegany County Fifth War Loan drive for sales of $3,000,000 in war bonds before July 8, introduced four veterans of the present world war. The first veteran was Lt. Joseph P. Boyland of Cumberland, who escaped from Batavia, Naughton explained that Lt. Boyland was unable to make an address for reasons of military security.

Naughton then presented Staff Sgt. Edwin T. "Ted" Nelson of Cumberland, who described his experiences with an air corps communications group in England, North Africa, Sicily and Italy.

Two wounded veterans of the present war, Tech. Sgt. Elias Bragg of Massachusetts, who was wounded in the arm and leg at Cassino, and Tech. Sgt. John Gewach of Rhode Island, who survived a bomber crash after a reconnaissance flight over New Guinea, spoke briefly. Both are patients at the Newton D. Baker General Hospital in Martinsburg, W. Va.

V.F.W.-Elks Buy Bonds

As Girl Scouts collected war bond pledge cards which had been distributed to those entering the stadium, Naughton announced that he had just been handed subscriptions for $2,150 from Post 1411, V.F.W., and $1,500 from Lodge No. 63, which sponsored the program.

The military band, grouped in front of the speakers' platform, closed the program at dusk with the playing of "Over There," and the various parade units filed out of the stadium to form for the return march to the city.

The Elks officers who officiated at the flag ceremony included Michael P. O'Neill, esteemed leading knight; Marcus Mullen, esteemed loyal knight; George R. Lyning, esteemed lecturing knight; C. Phil Joy, esquire, and J. Douglas Heron, chaplain.

Peter F. Matt headed the Elks committee for Flag day. He was assisted by John H. Mosner, J. William Hunt, Harry I. Stegmaler, C. William Gilchrist, Thomas F. Keech, George R. Lyning, James R. Yarnall and Clifford Gainer.

Band to Give Concert

The eight flag bearers in the tableau were Gloria Mont, Theoda Lee Kompanek, Shirley Wilkinson and Maxine Hawkins from Allegany High; and Mabel Bageant, Irene Minnick, Lois Shriver and Betty Brown from Port Hill High.

At 9:15 tonight Sgt. Platt's band and orchestra will present a free bond rally entertainment in the Maryland theater, after the close of the regular motion picture showing at 9 p. m. The program will include President Roosevelt's radio address opening the Fifth War Loan drive.

Six Births Are Reported in Hospitals

Mr. and Mrs. James Everly, Route 3, Bedford road, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning in Allegany hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Beckman, Williams road, yesterday morning in Memorial hospital.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carr, 615 Sylvan avenue, on June 7 at home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Frank Beamer, Grantsville, announce the birth of a daughter Friday evening in Memorial hospital. Mrs. Beamer is the former Miss Margaret Jane Gortner. The father is a former Maryland State Trooper, now stationed in California where he is studying navigation with the army air forces.

A daughter was born to Pvt. and Mrs. F. E. Beckman, Winchester road, yesterday morning in Memorial hospital. Mrs. Beckman is the former Miss Naomi Strieby, R. N. Pvt. Beckman is stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla.

COMING HERE — The Rev. David C. Watson, rector of St. James parish, Anne Arundel county, who was recently elected rector of Emmanuel Episcopal church, Cumberland, will begin his work here on Sunday, June 25. A native of Baltimore, the Rev. Mr. Watson is a graduate of John Hopkins university and of Virginia Theological Seminary. He was ordained as a priest in December 1932 and became rector of St. James parish, in Anne Arundel county in February 1934 and in 1940 was made priest in charge of All Saints parish in Calvert county, in addition to his work at St. James. He will succeed the Rev. David C. Clark, who resigned his rectorship here several weeks ago to accept a call to the Church of the Good Shepherd in Lexington, Ky.

Progress of Blood Donor Program Is Satisfactory

Dr. Brady Smith Says Indications Point to Its Success

Cumberland's Red Cross Blood Donor project, now heading into its second and final week, is "progressing satisfactorily," and "indications are that it will be a success," Dr. J. Brady Smith, in charge of the medical work connected with the program, said last night.

Joseph H. Cromwell, chairman of the project, also declared that if the "second week comes through as well as the first it will be perfectly satisfactory."

Cromwell pointed out, however, that more donors are needed and called attention to the change in hours of operation of the unit on Friday. On that day blood can be given from 9 a. m. until 2 p. m. in contrast to the hours from noon to 5 p. m. which are in effect the rest of the week.

Keep Appointments Promptly

The necessity of being prompt and keeping appointments also was emphasized by the local chairman. Anyone who has been scheduled but who cannot keep the appointment will promptly should telephone 2578 so that a replacement can be made, he added, explaining that the unit cannot work later than 5 p. m. because the blood taken during the day must be prepared for shipment.

Volunteer blood donors the first week of the program represented a cross section of Cumberland residents, Cromwell said in appealing for more donors. The schedule of donors is complete except for Friday when 100 more persons will still be able to give their blood. Thirty donors can be cared for from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m. and thirty more from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Forty donors are needed for the period between 12:15 p. m. and 1:45 p. m.

Replacements Needed

There is a special need for donors, Cromwell said, who are willing to come to the Masonic Temple without appointment and wait until they are needed to replace a volunteer who cannot keep his appointment.

Several unusual incidents have occurred, Cromwell said, pointing out that after one donor had given blood, he looked at his arm and solemnly disclosed he didn't realize there was "a whole point of blood" in the limb.

Typical of the seriousness with which most Cumberlanders are taking the blood donor project is another man who overstepped and was unable to keep his appointment because he had to go to work. At 10 o'clock that night, after he had finished work, however, he went to the Masonic temple, said he was sorry and offered to be bled then.

Packing Committees Named

Committees have been designated by Jesse E. Hopcraft, chairman of the Blood Bank committee, of Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to assist during the week with packing the blood for shipment to the laboratory.

The committee heads and the days they will serve are Monday, Bernard Higgins, Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus; Tuesday, Frank Kelley, Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; Wednesday, Joseph Wolfe, Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose; Thursday, William L. Mackenzie, Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars; and Friday, Patrick J. Carroll, Lodge No. 120, Improved Order of Red Men.

Committee To Meet

The Allegany County War Memorial Committee will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in John Park's office, third floor Clark-Keating building.

Each member of the class offered a prayer for the boys in the armed forces. The organization presented a gift to Mrs. Davis, who will leave at an early date to reside in Baltimore.

Cumberland Men Are Fighting Near Cherbourg

Are Members of Twenty-ninth Division Battling on Peninsula

Many Cumberlanders who left here with Company G of the Maryland National Guard are believed to be fighting in France now with the United States Twenty-ninth Division, which is operating on the Cherbourg peninsula between Isigny and TREVIERES, according to information received last night from Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force. The division is called the "Blue and Gray Division" because its fighting men come from both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Don Whitehead, elements of the Twenty-ninth were among the assault troops which broke the German coastal defense after bitter fighting on D-day.

Activated in Jan. 1941

Activated on Jan. 14, 1941, the division reached Britain on Oct. 3, 1942 and trained in Britain longer than any other for the "big show." Since its activation all its training has been pointed directly for one thing—the invasion of the continent.

It carried out maneuvers over the rough country of Northern England. One of its battalions trained with British Commandos in Scotland. The division was hardened under simulated battle conditions on the beaches of Southern Britain and in deep dreary moors.

Originally the Twenty-ninth was composed of national guard units from Maryland, Virginia, Washington, D. C., and Western Pennsylvania, but it was filled out with soldiers from nearly all sections of the United States. It has seen 1,600 men in its ranks become officers since its activation.

In the last war the Twenty-ninth landed in France just a year after being mobilized and fought in the Meuse-Argonne and Haute-Alsace campaigns.

BALTIMORE, June 11 (AP) —

The Twenty-ninth Division Association, Department of Maryland, sent a cablegram of congratulations and wishes of success today to the commanding general of the new Twenty-ninth division participating in the Allied invasion of France.

At its annual convention, the veteran World War I unit also paved the way for members of the new division from Maryland to join the association when they return from the war.

A resolution was adopted making all those who are honorably discharged, placed on the inactive list or retired, eligible for membership. This action was in accord with that of the National Association of the Twenty-ninth Division.

John J. Philbin, 54-year-old Baltimore real estate management man, was elected department commander without opposition, succeeding J. A. Mullendore.

Past Commander Theodore P. Mullan, of Baltimore Post No. 1, said the One-hundred and Fifteenth regiment was formed from the breakup of the old First, Fourth and Fifth Maryland regiments and went into training in 1917 "with no traditions."

"The division," he said, "built its own traditions—traditions that we know are being carried on by the Twenty-ninth in France today."

Speaking of ties between France and the Twenty-ninth, National Commander Charles L. Hofmann said "we are looking forward to the liberation of France to learn what has happened to the Romaine National cemetery where several of the men of the old Twenty-ninth are buried."

The Germans, he continued, threatened to use the cemetery as a bomb proving ground before the United States entered the war. The Twenty-ninth Division Association protested through the State department and there was a German promise not to disturb the cemetery.

Commander Hofmann also recalled that several units of the old Twenty-ninth landed at Cherbourg, the French port for which Allied troops are now battling.

Upward of 1,000 Swimmers Try Pool At Constitution Park

The return of warmer weather brought swimmers out in force yesterday and upward of 1,000 of them turned out to take a dip in the pool in Constitution park, Mayor Thomas S. Post announced.

Not only the water but the park in general was popular yesterday and the mayor reported there were lots of picnickers taking advantage of the park's facilities.

A. P. HILL IS HELD ON GAMING CHARGE

A. P. Hill, of the 500 block, Virginia avenue, will have a hearing in police court today following his arrest Saturday afternoon on a charge of operating a gaming device. He posted a $100 bond, following his arrest by Officers J. Stouffer, R. M. Nuse and Arthur Kenwell.

The warrant, obtained by Officer R. C. Casen, charges that Hill was conducting a "bookie" establishment where bets on horse races were made. June 2. Police said similar establishments in the uptown section have been closed for several weeks for reasons unknown.

Ridgeley Honors Residents Serving In Armed Forces

Tribute Is Paid War Dead at Honor Roll Dedication

Tribute to four residents of the Ridgeley area who have made the supreme sacrifice in the present war, to one who is a prisoner in Germany, and to those who have been wounded, was paid by Robert C. Bowers, past commander of Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, at the program yesterday afternoon marking the dedication of the Ridgeley permanent honor roll, located at the intersection of Main, Knobley and Mineral streets, near the post office.

Is Well Constructed

With pleasant weather prevailing, a large share of the population of the town was present. The honor roll is constructed of brick and concrete and the names, printed in enamel lettering, are under glass.

Following a selection by the Fort Cumberland Post American Legion band the cloth screening the front of the plaque was removed by A. R. Kelso and H. A. Beas, committee members. The flag was raised by Ray Thomas. The honor roll was decorated with baskets of flowers, the gift of Mrs. William Ridgeley and Bopp's Flower Shop.

Expresses Pride of Firemen

The master of ceremonies, Jesse H. Simmons, who also, as representative of the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Department, declared that the fire department, in contributing a share of the cost of the honor roll, was proud to do something to honor the men and women in service who are now giving their lives to preserve democratic freedom and the American way of life.

Fighting For Ideals

Bowers was introduced as a veteran of World War I who reached the rank of lieutenant. His two sons are members of the armed forces in the present war. The service men listed by the speaker as having met death in the war are Pfc. Kenneth Baker, Pfc. Charles Woods, Pfc. William Cline and Lt. R. C. Grace. The prisoner of war is LeRoy Henry.

Speaking of the war dead Bowers said, "They have demonstrated the truth we have learned from the Holy Writ, 'greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends.' May their souls rest in peace in the blessed bosom of the everlasting God."

War against System

Referring to the attitude of the American soldier toward the war, the speaker said, "They know that they are waging war not merely against the Axis, not merely against certain systems of politics and economics, but against a philosophy born in a warped brain of an Austrian house painter and promulgated by a group of ruthless and greedy politicians."

"Our boys are not fighting for more territory—living space as Hitler puts it. They are fighting two ideas, the one hatched in the degenerate mind of Hitler and the other born and fostered in the minds of Tojo's militaristic Japanese. If we and other Christian nations are to be free and remain free, these pagan philosophies must be stamped out now and forever," he continued.

Won War, Lost Peace

Dwelling on the conditions which brought about the Second World War Bowers said, "The boys of 1917 won the war but the powers that were failed to win a lasting and permanent peace. From this unfortunate experience, the boys and girls of this war, and the ruling powers, will make sure that when victory is ours, and victory will be ours, and peace comes, it will be a lasting peace and strict supervision will be exercised over these conquered nations. They will make sure that a quarter of a century from now the sons and daughters of our present soldiers will not be called to fight in a terrible war because we failed a second time."

Heiskell Speaks

A brief talk was given by Prof. M. M. Heiskell in presenting the memorial to the town and the acceptance address was made by Mayor Paul K. Morgan. Remarks were made by representatives of the four organizations whose contributions of money and work made the memorial possible. They were Orlin D. Bollings, representing the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club; Jesse H. Simmons, representing the Fire department; Aden L. Everstine, representing the Lions club and Paul K. Morgan, representing the town.

During the program Patsey Amato, representing the navy, and home on leave, and Staff Sgt. Harold McGruder, who was wounded in an air battle over Europe, representing the army, came to the speakers stand and were introduced to the audience.

The invocation of the opening of the program was by the Rev. R. L. Graynolds and the benediction was by the Rev. Robert Kilgallon. Selections were played at intervals by the Legion band.

Auxiliary Will Meet

The Fulton-Meyers Unit, No. 153, American Legion Auxiliary, will meet Tuesday evening at 9:30 o'clock at the home, North Mechanic street. Installation of officers and initiation of new members will be held.

Hitler's and Tojo's Coffins Will Help Add Impetus to Bond Drive

Push to Graves Ends When $3,000,000 Quota Is Exceeded

GATEWAY CHATTER

Cumberlanders are going to wake up one day this week and find a couple of rough pine coffins on Baltimore street. One of them will be for the infamous Hitler and the other for the ignoble Tojo but it will be up to you and you and you to see that they reach their respective destinations.

It's all a part of the plan devised by the war bond campaign committee of the Mercantile bureau of the chamber of commerce, under the chairmanship of Morton W. Peskin, to boost the sale of war bonds during the Fifth War Loan drive that opened last night with a parade and rally.

Lines Represent $500,000

Allegany county has a quota of $3,000,000 in war bonds to meet and that, coupled with the two coffins, explains the white line painted on the center of Baltimore street from the Western Maryland to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossings. Those six white lines running from curb to curb and intersecting the center line each represent half a million dollars.

The idea is this. The long white line from railroad crossing to railroad crossing is the route to the respective graves of Hitler and Tojo. Your purchase of war bonds will move the coffins along the route until they eventually reach their graves—when Allegany county exceeds its $3,000,000 quota. The "gruesome twosome" will then be disposed of at an appropriate ceremony.

Coffins Being Made

Right now the coffins, to measure six feet in length and eighteen inches in height, are being made. Just when they will be placed on Baltimore street depends on when they are finished, but members of the committee are confident it will be the first of the week.

The coffins will be placed on stands on the pavement, one on either side of the street, near the Western Maryland crossing to begin the big push up Baltimore street to the graves near the B. and O. crossing.

Tentative arrangements call for the coffins to be moved twice weekly, using the report of the Fifth Federal Reserve district as to progress made in the bond sale in Allegany county.

As bond sales go up and the coffins progress toward the graves, signs will be erected in back of them conveying the news that "Hitler's and Tojo's coffins have passed this point. Buy another bond and keep them moving."

Kelly Will Build New Heat Treating Plant for Shells

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Friday was granted a building permit by Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, for the construction of a heat treating plant to be used in its production of shells.

The one story building will be constructed of cinder block and will measure thirty by 120 feet. It will have a concrete foundation and a steel roof. The cost was placed at $13,000.

Priorities for the construction of the building already have been granted by the War Production Board and company officials said the plant is needed because of planned increased shell production.

BRUMBACK TRANSFERRED TO ROANOKE, VA.

L. O. Brumback, who for the past seven years has been district manager for Southern States Co-operative in the Valley of Virginia and the Eastern Panhandle of West Virginia, has been transferred from Winchester, Va., to Roanoke, Va., where he will be district manager in Southwest Virginia and Southern West Virginia. He joined the Southern States staff eight years ago.

Brumback will be succeeded by C. T. Cline, Bridgewater, Va., who for the past four years has been connected with Southern States Co-operative as manager of the Kent-Queen Anne Petroleum Co-operative, Chestertown, Md., and of the Rockingham Petroleum Co-operative, Harrisonburg, Va. Cline was born and reared on a farm and has had broad experience in agricultural work. His territory includes the counties of Allegany, Garrett, and Washington, Md.; Augusta, Frederick, Park, Clarke, Rockingham, and Shenandoah, Va., and Mineral, Tucker, Preston, Grant, Jefferson, Pendleton, and Hardy, W. Va.

Brumback will supervise the co-operative's activities in Bedford, Big Stone Gap, Bristol, Danville, Galax, Martinsville, Pulaski, and Roanoke, Va., and Beckley, Marlinton, Princeton, and Ronceverte, W. Va.

Lee Barr is succeeding Cline at the petroleum co-operative in Harrisonburg.

Red Cross Confirms Death of Pvt. Logsdon

Confirmation of the death of Pvt. Ray Leroy Logsdon, husband of Mrs. Mary Logsdon, Cresaptown, has been received by the Allegany county chapter of the American Red Cross.

The inquiry was instituted after Mrs. Logsdon received a letter from her husband, dated April 3, the day on which the War department said he was killed in action on the Italian front.

Mrs. Logsdon also received Mother's day flowers which, investigation proved, had been ordered before his death at an army post exchange.

Sgt. David L. Wilson Is Still Missing

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Wilson, Bedford road, received a letter Saturday from air forces headquarters, advising them that no further word had been received about their son, Tech. Sgt. David L. Wilson, a crew member on a Flying Fortress, who was reported missing in action March 2 after a bombing raid on Frankfurt, Germany.

The parents were notified March 17 that their son was missing, and Saturday's letter was the first received since that date.

War Loan Drive Here Opens with 4-Division Parade

Throng of Spectators Gets First Glimpse of Camp Lee Band

A four-division parade opening the Fifth War Loan drive moved promptly at 7 o'clock last night to its one and one-half mile march to Port Hill stadium and gave the Cumberlanders their first look at the Reception Center band, here in three days of participation in war sale boosting.

Wearing white sun helmets to smart-stepping and impressive bandmen, playing a martial tune followed state and city policemen and the local detachment of military policemen as the parade moved from South Centre street to Baltimore street on the first leg of its march.

Several thousand spectators crowded the line of march to watch the parade go by. Primarily the parade had a military aspect, although two of the four musical organizations represented Allegany and Port Hill high schools and the Cumberland Girl Scouts marched in the second division.

War Veterans March

Veterans of the First World War and of the Spanish-American War had their places in the line of march, the latter riding in automobiles along with disabled veterans. Port Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion; Henry Hart Post, No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Voltaire No. 64, of the Forty and Eight Society; members of Mount Chapter, Order of the Purple Heart; Navy mothers, army and navy recruiting services, nurses of Allegany hospital and the local war recruiting officers, Fulton-Meyers Post, No. 153, American Legion; drum corps and members were in the parade along with auxiliary units and the VFW girls' drill team.

Both Companies C and D, of the Maryland State Guard, as well as minute men companies were in the line of march, taking the places of the men of Company G, of the First Maryland Infantry, who used to march in parades here at home but who now, as part of the One Hundred Fifteenth Infantry of the Twenty-ninth division, are making things hot for the Germans in the vicinity of Cherbourg as the Allies move on in their invasion of France.

Letters from Commanders

War bonds buy their equipment and just to show how much the purchase of war bonds means, Charles A. Piper, regional chairman of the War Finance Committee, recently received letters from Admiral E. J. King, commander of the navy, and Lt. Gen. Alexander
